Health and Safety Awareness Training for Director's

This Health and Safety Training for Directors course provides Directors with an understanding of their responsibilities under UK Health and Safety legislation.

It is a legal requirement for all Directors to understand their Health and Safety roles and responsibilities and this training will cover the areas outlined by the HSE as important for all businesses.

Course Content:

- Upon completion the delegates will have gained knowledge and understanding of:
- The scope and extent of responsibility for managing health and safety and the role of the Director and Senior Management;
- IOD/HSE guidance on individual and corporate responsibilities;
- Knowledge and understanding of the key legislation relevant to health and safety management within any business;
- An understanding of the principles of risk management applied to health and safety issues and how these can be effectively integrated;
- An opportunity to explore the practical implementation of health and safety risk management principles within your organisation;
- Successful health and Safety management systems.

Managing risk is a key issue for all directors in both public and private sector organisations. One significant aspect of Risk is the health and safety of an organisation's employees, and of others (including the public) who may be affected by any its activities.

The Course is designed to be interactive, to facilitate discussion and to explore practical methods of improving business performance through more effective management of health and safety risk.
