Making sense of health & safety training

Gloucestershire Association for Voluntary and Community Action

With offices in Gloucester and Cheltenham, GAVCA provides support for charities and local voluntary groups, from training to help with applications for funding and finding volunteers. PPD have provided their First Aid and Health and Safety Training for 2 years.

Charlee Kay, Administrator at GAVCA's offices in Beatrice Webb House in Gloucester says that they chose PPD as they provide high quality training at very reasonable prices. "Not only do they always deliver what we ask for, they are always flexible regarding what we want to offer our learners. The training that PPD provide is always of a high standard. The trainers make you feel relaxed and comfortable and make the training enjoyable and fun. It's clear that the trainers know their subjects inside out and this comes across in the teaching."

The consistently positive feedback GAVCA receive from their staff confirms how well PPD's approach to training works for them.

"The way in which the training is delivered made it easier to retain all the information. All the training materials that PPD provide makes it easy to refer to, if in doubt. I feel much more confident after attending First Aid and Health and Safety training." says Charlee.

"You get so much out of the training that PPD provide. Its full of information without being overwhelming. Definitely value for money! Dave and the team are brilliant and really know their subjects inside out. I wouldn't hesitate to recommend PPD to other companies and businesses!"
